1. ____________ and ________________ drive development. Give an example of each one.

2. What are the three domains of development? Give an example of each one.
   1. __________________________
   2. __________________________
   3. __________________________

3. The explanation of how facts fit together, allowing us to understand and predict behavior is __________________________.

4. What are the four ways we can apply research in child development?

5. This research method attempts to describe behavior. __________________________

6. This research method attempts to determine the strengths of a relationship between two or more conditions or behaviors __________________________

7. This research method has an experimental group and a control group __________________________

8. __________________________ plays an important role in research with children.

WORD BANK

ethics  cognitive  nature  counseling  nurture  experimental  education  physical  correlational theory  social policy  socio-emotional  experimental  descriptive  parenting  microsystem  ego  hypothesis  culture